

The company is a privately financed, global acting leader in the biotechnology fields specialized in supporting stem cell research. The company is located in North America, with subsidiaries in Europe, Asia and Australia in clusters for life sciences research. Customers are scientific researchers mainly in haematology/ immunology and tissue engineering labs at key universities or privately owned big centres.

For further business expansion the client is looking for further

Account Managers Stem Cell Research (m/f)

- Preferably for the South of Germany and Austria -

The Position

- To manage and to support all existing customers and to realize the direct marketing and sales targets in your sales region.
- To systematically introduce new products into the market incl. pricing
- To completely support all customers scientifically including organization of trainings, seminars, workshops and on-site visits in customer labs
- The future job holder will work from home office and will report to the Sales Director Central Europe.

Your Profile

- MSc., university degree in life science, preferably with specialization in cell biology
- Sound experience within the sectors of cell culture or cell separation
- First experiences in field sales
- German and English fluent
- Young professionals with first sales experience are also welcome to apply

Contact

Please submit your structured CV with photo and references and a cover letter to Conrath Consulting & Coaching via E-mail: conrath@conrathcc.com, www.conrathcc.com, +49 (211) 75844840.